Graywolf Press is a leading independent publisher committed to the discovery and energetic publication of twenty-first century American and international literature. We champion outstanding writers at all stages of their careers to ensure that adventurous readers can find underrepresented and diverse voices in a crowded marketplace.

We believe works of literature nourish the reader’s spirit and enrich the broader culture, and that they must be supported by attentive editing, compelling design, and creative promotion.

www.graywolfpress.org
Our work is made possible by the book buyer, and by the generous support of individuals, corporations, foundations, and governmental agencies, to whom we offer heartfelt thanks. We encourage you to support Graywolf’s publishing efforts. For information, check our web site (listed above) or call us at (651) 641-0077.

GRAYWOLF STAFF

Fiona McCrae, Director and Publisher
Marisa Atkinson, Director of Marketing and Engagement
Katie Dublinski, Associate Publisher
Rachel Fulkerson, Development Consultant
Karen Gu, Publicity Associate
Leslie Johnson, Managing Director
Yana Makuwa, Editorial Assistant
Pat Marjoram, Accountant
Caroline Nitz, Publicist
Ethan Nosowsky, Editorial Director
Casey O’Neil, Sales and Marketing Manager
Josh Ostergaard, Development Officer
Susannah Sharpless, Editorial Assistant
Jeff Shotts, Executive Editor
Steven Woodward, Editor
Brigid Hughes, Contributing Editor

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Carol Bemis (chair), Catherine Allan, Trish F. Anderson, Milo Cumaranatunge, Rick Dow, Mary Ebert, Lee Freeman, Chris Galloway, James Hoecker, Mark Jensen, Tom Joyce, Will Kaul, Chris Kirwan, Jim McCarthy, Cathy Polasky, Mary Polta, Paula Roe, Gail See, Roderic Southall, Debra Stone, Judy Titcomb, Emily Anne Tuttle, Melinda Ward

BOARD EMERITUS

Marilynn Alcott, Ann Bitter, Page Knudsen Cowles, Sally Dixon, Colin Hamilton, Betsy Hannaford, Diane Herman, Katherine Murphy, Mary Polta, Bruno A. Quinson, Gail See, Kay Sexton, Margaret Telfer, Melinda Ward, John Wheelihan, Margaret Wurtele

NATIONAL COUNCIL

James Hoecker (chair), Marion Brown, Mary Carswell, Edwin C. Cohen, Gabriella De Ferrari, Ellen Flamm, Vicki Ford, Paul Griffiths, Betsy Hannaford, Barbara Holmes, Georgia Murphy Johnson, Sheela Lampietti, Chris LaVictoire Mahai, Kevin Martin, Maura Rainey McCormack, Zachary McMillan, Elise Paschen, Bruno A. Quinson, Susan Ritz, Marita Rivero, Eunice Salton, Gail See, Stephanie Steibich, Kathryn B. Swintek, Kate Tabner, Nancy Temple, Diane Thomodsgard, Joanne Von Blon, Kristin Walrod, Tappan Wilder, Catherine Wyler

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This activity is made possible by the voters of Minnesota through a Minnesota State Arts Board Operating Support grant, thanks to a legislative appropriation from the arts and cultural heritage fund, and through a grant from the Wells Fargo Foundation.

Additional support has been provided by the Amazon Literary Partnership, the College of Saint Benedict, the Jerome Foundation, the Lannan Foundation, the McKnight Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Elizabeth C. Quinlan Foundation, and Target.
“Danez Smith’s is a voice we need. . . . This is a mighty work, and a tremendous offering.”
—Tracy K. Smith

Don’t Call Us Dead
Poems

DANEZ SMITH

Award-winning poet Danez Smith is a groundbreaking force, celebrated for deft lyrics, urgent subjects, and performative power. Don’t Call Us Dead opens with a heartrending sequence that imagines an afterlife for black men shot by police, a place where suspicion, violence, and grief are forgotten and replaced with the safety, love, and longevity they deserved here on earth. Smith turns then to desire, mortality—the dangers experienced in skin, body, and blood—and a diagnosis of HIV positive. “some of us are killed / in pieces,” Smith writes, “some of us all at once.” Don’t Call Us Dead is an astonishing collection, one that confronts America, where every day is too often a funeral and not often enough a miracle.

history is what it is. it knows what it did.
bad dog. bad blood. bad day to be a boy

color of a July well spent. but here, not earth not heaven, we can’t recall our white shirts

turned ruby gowns. here, there’s no language for officer or law, no color to call white.

if snow fell, it’d fall black. please, don’t call us dead, call us alive someplace better.
 —from “summer, somewhere”

“In Don’t Call Us Dead [Smith] demands we stand only in the truth of our own fear and build a love that’s so redemptive and real. If you have ever lost faith, if you want to believe in life, then you must read this book—it will humble and uplift you, leave you understanding that in the face of it all, there is only awe.”
—Chris Abani
An Excerpt from Her Body and Other Parties

I have always been a teller of stories. When I was a young girl, my mother carried me out of a grocery store as I screamed about toes in the produce aisle. Concerned women turned and watched as I kicked the air and pounded my mother’s slender back.

“Potatoes!” she corrected when we got back to the house. “Not toes!” She told me to sit in my chair—a child-sized thing, built for me—until my father returned. But no, I had seen the toes, pale and bloody stumps, mixed in among those russet tubers. One of them, the one that I had poked with the tip of my index finger, was cold as ice, and yielded beneath my touch the way a blister did. When I repeated this detail to my mother, something behind the liquid of her eyes shifted quick as a startled cat.

“You stay right there,” she said.

My father returned from work that evening, and listened to my story, each detail.

“You’ve met Mr. Barns, have you not?” he asked me, referring to the elderly man who ran this particular market.

I had met him once, and I said so. He had hair white as a sky before snow, and a wife who drew the signs for the store windows.

“Why would Mr. Barns sell toes?” my father asked. “Where would he get them?”

Being young, and having no understanding of graveyards or mortuaries, I could not answer.

“And even if he got them somewhere,” my father continued, “what would he have to gain by selling them amongst the potatoes?”

They had been there. I had seen them with my own eyes. But beneath the sunbeam of my father’s logic, I felt my doubt unfurl.

“Most importantly,” my father said, arriving triumphantly at his final piece of evidence, “why did no one notice the toes except for you?”

As a grown woman, I would have said to my father that there are true things in this world observed only by a single set of eyes. As a girl, I consented to his account of the story, and laughed when he scooped me from the chair to kiss me and send me on my way.
A highly anticipated debut by “one of the most ferociously gifted young writers working today”

(Michelle Huneven)

Her Body and Other Parties
Stories
CARMEN MARIA MACHADO

In Her Body and Other Parties, Carmen Maria Machado blithely demolishes the arbitrary borders between psychological realism and science fiction, comedy and horror, fantasy and fabulism. While her work has earned her comparisons to Karen Russell and Kelly Link, she has a voice that is all her own. In this electric and provocative debut, Machado bends genre to shape startling narratives that map the realities of women’s lives and the violence visited upon their bodies.

A wife refuses her husband’s entreaties to remove the green ribbon from around her neck. A woman recounts her sexual encounters as a plague slowly consumes humanity. A salesclerk in a mall makes a horrifying discovery within the seams of the store’s prom dresses. One woman’s surgery-induced weight loss results in an unwanted houseguest. And in the bravura novella “Especially Heinous,” Machado reimagines every episode of Law & Order: Special Victims Unit, a show we naively assumed had shown it all, generating a phantasmagoric police procedural full of doppelgängers, ghosts, and girls-with-bells-for-eyes.

Earthy and otherworldly, antic and sexy, queer and caustic, comic and deadly serious, Her Body and Other Parties swings from horrific violence to the most exquisite sentiment. In their explosive originality, these stories enlarge the possibilities of contemporary fiction.

“Carmen Maria Machado is the way forward.”
—Kevin Brockmeier

“Those of us who knew have been waiting for a Carmen Maria Machado collection for years. Her stories show us what we really love and fear.”
—Alexander Chee

“Carmen Maria Machado’s stories build and build until they surround and ensnare and at the end you’re always glad to be all tangled up.”
—NPR

CARMEN MARIA MACHADO’s work has appeared in Granta, the New Yorker, NPR, Electric Literature, and elsewhere. She has been nominated for a Nebula Award and a Shirley Jackson Award, and was a finalist for the Calvino Prize. She lives in Philadelphia.
A dark-hued, hybrid novel by a writer who “delivers our culture back to us, made entirely new”
(A. M. Homes)

The Complete Ballet
A Fictional Essay in Five Acts

JOHN HASKESELL

In The Complete Ballet, John Haskell choreographs an intricate and irresistible pas de deux in which fiction and criticism come together to create a new kind of story. Fueled by the dramatic retelling of five romantic ballets (La Sylphide, Giselle, La Bayadère, Swan Lake, and Petrushka) and interwoven with a contemporary story about a man whose daunting gambling debt pushes him to the edge of his own abyss, it is both a pulpy entertainment and a meditation on the physicality—and psychology—of dance.

The unnamed narrator finds himself inexorably drawn back to the pre-cell phone world of Technicolor Los Angeles, to a time when the tragedies of his life were about to collide. Working as a part-time masseur in Hollywood, he attends an underground poker game with his friend Cosmo, a strip-club entrepreneur. What happens there hurtles the narrator down the road and into the room where the novel’s violent and surreal showdown leaves him a different person.

As the narrator revisits his past, he simultaneously inhabits and reconstructs the mythic stories of ballet, assessing along the way the lives and obsessions of Nijinsky and Balanchine, Pavlova and Fonteyn, Joseph Cornell, and the film director John Cassavetes. This compulsively readable fiction is ultimately a profound and haunting consideration of the nature of art and identity.

Praise for the work of John Haskell

“This book is a rebellion against the novel, even as it inhabits the form.”
— Los Angeles Times

“This strange, moving book has done just what a first novel should: it has left an impression.”
— The New York Times Book Review

“A literary affirmation of fiction’s potential.”
— San Francisco Chronicle
“Remarkable: a book about borders which makes the reader feel sumptuously free.”
—Peter Pomerantsev

Border

A Journey to the Edge of Europe

KAPKA KASSABOVA

In this extraordinary work of narrative reportage, Kapka Kassabova returns to Bulgaria, from where she emigrated twenty-five years previously, to explore the border it shares with Turkey and Greece. When she was a child, the border zone was rumored to be an easier crossing point into the West than the Berlin Wall, and it swarmed with soldiers and spies. On holidays in the “Red Riviera” on the Black Sea, she remembers playing on the beach only miles from a bristling electrified fence whose barbs pointed inward toward the enemy: the citizens of the totalitarian regime.

Kassabova discovers a place that has been shaped by successive forces of history: the Soviet and Ottoman empires, and, older still, myth and legend. Her exquisite portraits of fire walkers, smugglers, treasure hunters, botanists, and border guards populate the book. There are also the ragged men and women who have walked across Turkey from Syria and Iraq. But there seem to be nonhuman forces at work here too: this densely forested landscape is rich with curative springs and Thracian tombs, and the tug of the ancient world, of circular time and animism, is never far off.

Border is a scintillating, immersive travel narrative that is also a shadow history of the Cold War, a sideways look at the migration crisis troubling Europe, and a deep, witchy descent into interior and exterior geographies.

“The literature of place is crying out for a talent as magical, brilliant and original as Kapka Kassabova’s.”
—Pico Iyer

“[Border] hums with the mystery, superstition, and terrible beauty of a place crushed between man-made borders but also defiantly announcing its sacred otherness.”
—Frances Stonor Saunders
Now in paperback, a Man Booker Prize finalist of “great brilliance and brutal simplicity”
(The New Yorker)

All That Man Is
A Novel
David Szalay

All That Man Is traces the arc of life from the spring of youth to the winter of old age by following nine men who range from a working-class ex-grunt to a pompous college student, a middle-aged loser to a Russian oligarch. Ludicrous and inarticulate, shocking and despicable, vital, pitiable, and hilarious, these men paint a picture of modern manhood. David Szalay is a master of a new kind of realism that vibrates with detail, intelligence, relevance, and devastating pathos. In All That Man Is, a finalist for the Man Booker Prize and the winner of the Gordon Burn Prize and the Plimpton Prize, he brilliantly illuminates the physical and emotional terrain of an increasingly globalized Europe.

“Szalay’s prose . . . is frequently brilliant, remarkable for its grace and economy. . . . [All That Man Is] has a new urgency now that the post-Cold War dream of a Europe of open borders and broad, shared identity has come under increasing question.”

“Szalay does so much and so well that we come to view his snapshots of lives as brilliant, captivating dramas.”
—Star Tribune (Minneapolis)

“A 100-megawatt novel: intelligent, intricate, so very well made, the form perfectly fitting the content. When I reached the end, I turned straight back to the start to begin again.”
—The Sunday Times (UK)

“David Szalay writes with voluptuous authority. He possesses voice rather than merely style. . . . He is an exceedingly gifted [writer] who can move in any direction he wishes. . . . This book is a demonstration of uncommon power. It is a bummer, and it is beautiful.”
Never before published in the United States, the debut novel by the wildly talented author of Man Booker Prize finalist All That Man Is

London and the South-East
A Novel
DAVID SZALAY

“That clattering noise you hear is the sound of critics and readers racing to find [David Szalay’s] earlier books, an activity worth the effort,” wrote Dwight Garner in his New York Times review of Szalay’s All That Man Is. And now his debut novel, London and the South-East, is finally available for American readers as well.

Paul Rainey, the hapless antihero at the center of this “compulsively readable” (Independent on Sunday) story works, miserably, in ad sales. He sells space in magazines that hardly exist, and through a fog of booze and drugs dimly perceives that he is dissatisfied with his life—professionally, sexually, recreationally, the whole nine yards. If only there were something he could do about it—and “something” seems to fall into his lap when a meeting with an old friend and fellow salesman, Eddy Jaw, leads to the offer of a new job. But when that offer turns out to be as misleading as Paul’s own sales patter, his life is transformed in ways very much more peculiar than he ever thought possible.

London and the South-East, which won the Betty Trask Prize and the Geoffrey Faber Memorial Prize, is both a gloriously told shaggy-dog story about the compromising inanities of office life and consumer culture, and the perfect introduction to one of the best writers at work today.

“[A] contemporary British novelist worth catching up on and following . . . on a level with the likes of James Buchan, Tessa Hadley and Edward St Aubyn. . . . Szalay has at his fingertips all the mechanical urgency, pleading, appetites and squalor of our transparent, crowded and increasingly irreal era.”

—Michael Hofmann, London Review of Books

DAVID SZALAY is the author of The Innocent, Spring, and All That Man Is, which was a finalist for the Man Booker Prize. In 2013 he was named as one of Granta’s Best of Young British Novelists. He lives in Budapest.
An Excerpt from Bunk

“History is bunk,” Henry Ford would offer. From one angle, he was right inasmuch as Barnum and others used bunk to connect the audience to a history—usually a grand, American one—that it desperately wished true. Barnum’s brilliance was to understand that wish to see America great yet again. But Barnum, the Prince of Humbug, also remained deeply connected to an assembly line of assumptions, crafting an image of the black body symbolically and literally disassembled before the audience’s eyes.

The term bunk itself was born of conflict and race, coined in 1820 from the floor of the 16th Congress when a North Carolina representative continued to filibuster for the Missouri Compromise that made it a slave state: though the question had been called, he said he had to give speech for or to Buncombe, his home county. “Buncombe” got changed to bunkum, then shortened to bunk, giving name to that species of fakery, unnecessary flattery, and politicking phoniness that barely believes what it says. Or worse, comes to believe its bunk never stunk.

For Barnum, naming provided much of the power of a show: he knew using exotic terminology and quoting invented experts promised his audience a world they might not otherwise get to see. His early touring exhibitions and popular American Museum gave audience members a sense of traveling without leaving their assumptions, of touring without being a tourist. This is one of the hoax’s chief gambits. Above all, Barnum offered reassurance: even as he let the audience glimpse freaks and curiosities beyond category, visitors got to leave whole, entertained while offered proof of their being higher up on the scale of humanity.

It would be in the notorious exhibition he called “What is It?” that Barnum would signal hoaxing as a ritual of race. Just months after Darwin’s Origin of Species in 1860, intrigued visitors would enter to find the answer to the exhibit’s question: a black man they were invited to see as a, or as the, so-called missing link in evolution. The New York Mercury’s description of the Prince of Wales’s visit to the show provides one measure of the figure “whose humiliating likeness to mankind has led certain muddled philosophers to insinuate that he is an idiotic negro. Only a single glance from the bright and very intelligent eyes of the creature is necessary to disprove this absurd guess, while it adds to our bewilderment when we would trace a brute genealogy for him.” It is a measure of how the century’s views on race didn’t free up but only hardened, the Negro gone from handmaid to inhuman.

... But I’ve come to realize the hoax regularly steps in when race rears its head—exactly because it too is a fake thing pretending to be real.
Has the hoax now moved from the sideshow to take the center stage of American culture?

Bunk

The Rise of Hoaxes, Humbug, Plagiarists, Phonies, Post-Facts, and Fake News

KEVIN YOUNG

Award-winning poet and critic Kevin Young traces the history of the hoax as a peculiarly American phenomenon—the legacy of P. T. Barnum’s “humbug” culminating with the currency of Donald J. Trump’s “fake news.” Disturbingly, Young finds that fakery is woven from stereotype and suspicion, with race being the most insidious American hoax of all. He chronicles how Barnum came to fame by displaying figures like Joice Heth, a black woman whom he pretended was the 161-year-old nursemaid to George Washington, and “What is It?,” an African American man Barnum professed was a newly discovered missing link in evolution.

Bunk then turns to the hoaxing of history and the ways that forgers, plagiarists, and frauds invent backstories and falsehoods to sell us lies about themselves and about the world in our own time, from pretend Native Americans Grey Owl and Nasdijj to the deadly imposture of Clark Rockefeller, from the made-up memoirs of James Frey to the identity theft of Rachel Dolezal. This brilliant and timely work asks what it means to live in a post-factual world of “truthiness” where everything is up for interpretation and everyone is subject to a contagious cynicism that damages our ideas of reality, fact, and art.

Praise for The Grey Album

Winner of the PEN Open Book Award
Finalist for the National Book Critics Circle Award for criticism

“Equal parts blues shout, church sermon, interpretive dance, TED talk, lit-crit manifesto, and mixtape, the poet Kevin Young’s first nonfiction book, The Grey Album: On the Blackness of Blackness, is an ambitious blast of fact and feeling, a nervy piece of performance art.”

On a flight from Oakland to Chicago, Theo thinks about two women he left behind: Maria, the girlfriend who shared his troubled youth, and Ambellina, the woman who has been satisfying the masochistic desires that emerged from it. His return to Chicago, and Maria, spurs the backward movement of this innovative novel that chases him ever deeper into the darkness and violence of his past.

As a boy, Theo was shuffled from juvenile delinquent centers to foster homes, picking up odd jobs, addictions, and ill-fitting relationships along the way. Scenes of abuse and heartache are revealed chapter by chapter, but our discovery of his dignity and humanity continues, even when we are finally confronted with the eleven-year-old child who barely remembers what it feels like to be safe.

In this beautiful and brutal novel, Stephen Elliott follows in the footsteps of writers like Hubert Selby and Dennis Cooper, of sexual renegades like Jean Genet and Marguerite Duras. Elliott writes with raw honesty and a tight yet lyric prose style that cuts through the fog of memory to get at the core of youth, pain, and what it means to be an outsider.

“Happy Baby is surely the most intelligent and beautiful book ever written about juvenile detention centers, sadomasochism, and drugs. . . . Heartbreaking.” —Curtis Sittenfeld, The New York Times Book Review

“Read it for the good writing. Read it for the S&M. Read it to understand how our society treats its children and what becomes of them.” —Bookslut

“Elliott puts us in a . . . position of wanting to know/dreading the knowledge . . . a graceful strategy that gives Happy Baby its unique veracity and humane edge.” —The Village Voice
An essay collection by a writer who “may be writing under . . . the influence of genius”

(Vanity Fair)

Sometimes I Think About It

Essays

STEPHEN ELLIOTT

In Sometimes I Think About It, Stephen Elliott gathers personal essays, reportage, and profiles written over fifteen years to tell a powerful story about outsiders and underdogs.

Moving from the self to the civic, the book begins with a series of essays that trace Elliott’s childhood with an abusive and erratic father, his life on the streets as a teenager, and his growing interest in cross-dressing and masochism. These stories, which range from a comic portrait of a week spent hosting his younger brother to a brutal depiction of depression, provide a context for the essays that follow.

Stepping out into the world, Elliott tells of a man who loses his family in a rock slide in Southern California, explores the vexing realities of life in Palestine, and paints a chilling picture of a young man caught in the prison-industrial complex. The last section, “The Business of America Is Business,” shows Elliott’s abiding interest in the spectacle of money in America, from pop music to pornography to publishing, and it concludes with an off-kilter account of the tech industry’s assault on West Los Angeles.

Building on the extraordinary storytelling that characterized his breakout book, The Adderall Diaries, Elliott’s search for dignity and happiness leads him to tell with great sympathy the stories of those who are broken and seek to be whole.

Praise for The Adderall Diaries

“[Elliott] is fascinated by questions of motive, how our capacity to love is disfigured into evil, and our tangled mechanisms of denial.”

—The Boston Globe

“A serious literary work designed to make you see the world as you’ve never quite seen it before.”

—The Washington Post
An atmospheric and affecting novel set in rural Norway, by the award-winning author of

Before I Burn

Across the China Sea

A Novel

GAUTE HEIVOLL

TRANSLATED FROM THE NORWEGIAN BY NADIA CHRISTENSEN

In the waning days of the German occupation of Norway, Karin and her husband move with their young son from Oslo to a tiny village in the south. There, they aim to live out their dream of caring for those who can’t look after themselves. They have spent months building a modest house with rooms for patients, and it’s soon filled, with three adult men who are psychologically unstable—including Karin’s uncle, Josef, who suffered a head injury in a carriage accident—and five siblings whose parents have been declared unfit, and who spur much conversation in the village. This small and idiosyncratic community persists for nearly three decades.

After his parents’ deaths, the son returns to clean out this unusual home. The objects of his childhood retain a talisman-like power over him, and key items—an orange crate where he and his sister Tone slept as infants, Josef’s medal of honor, his mother’s beloved piano, and many others—unlock vivid memories. In recounting the ways that the five siblings both are and are not a part of his family, he reveals his special relationship with Ingrid, who cannot speak, and Tone’s accidental death, which occurred when they were playing together, and its quiet yet tragic effects on the extended family.

With deep compassion and gentle humor, Gaute Heivoll portrays an unconventional family as it navigates an uncertain and often unkind world.

Praise from Norway for Across the China Sea

“Heivoll is a first-rate storyteller . . . who not only entertains, but also shines a spotlight on values that are fundamental for us as individuals and as a society.”

—Dagen

“A book with great warmth. . . . A remarkable tale about extraordinary lives.”

—Telemarksavisa
Stephen is sometimes Stephanie and sometimes wonders how his past and her past are their own collective memory.

Advice from the Lights
Poems
STEPHEN BURT

Advice from the Lights is part nostalgia, part confusion, and part an ongoing wondering: How do any of us achieve adulthood? And why would we want to, if we had the choice? This collection is woven from and interrupted by extraordinary sequences, including Stephanie poems about Stephen’s female self; poems on particular years of the poet’s early life, each with its own memories, desires, insecurities, and pop songs; and versions of poems by the Greek poet Callimachus, whose present-day incarnation worries (who doesn’t?) about mortality, the favor of the gods, and the career of Taylor Swift. The collection also includes poems on politics, location, and parenthood. This is Burt’s most accomplished collection, an essential work that asks who we are, how we become ourselves, and why we make art.

I had become convinced that character was fate.
Almost anything could result in tears.
I wanted to stay at Alison’s house overnight and wake up as a new girl, or a new mutant, or a new kind of humanity, engineered to travel at more than half the speed of light, but I wasn’t allowed. My bedtime and I were both eight.
—from “My 1979”

Praise for Belmont

“The collection is . . . made all the more charming by Burt’s constant self-reflexive address to the reader as co-conspirator and part of his larger ‘we.’”
—The New York Times Book Review

“Burt dismantles all cultural, psychological and literary idée reçue pertaining to childhood, identity, gender.”
—Los Angeles Times

STEPHEN BURT (who also goes by Steph and Stephanie) is Professor of English at Harvard and the author of several previous books of poetry and literary criticism, among them Belmont and Close Calls with Nonsense, as well as The Poem Is You.
A unique anthology that “plunges the reader into a translation seminar”
(Rosanna Warren)

Into English
Poems, Translations, Commentaries
Edited by Martha Collins and Kevin Prufer

Into English presents poems, translations, and commentaries in an extraordinary format for readers to experience the artistry of poetry in translation. Editors Martha Collins and Kevin Prufer invited twenty-five contributors, all of whom are translators and most of whom are also poets, to select one poem in another language and three English translations of it and provide an essay about the challenges of translating it. This wide-format anthology offers the original poem side by side with the translations, so readers can compare different ways a poem can be rendered into English. Organized chronologically, the anthology opens with a poem in ancient Greek by Sappho beside translations by Anne Carson, Willis Barnstone, and Mary Barnard, followed by an essay by Karen Emmerich.

The original poems are by poets from across time and from around the world, including Bashô, Rilke, Akhmatova, García Lorca, Szymborska, Amichai, and Adonis. The languages represented are many, from Latin to Chinese, Spanish, French, German, Russian, Hebrew, Arabic, and Haitian Creole. More than seventy translators are included, among them Robert Bly, Ruth Fainlight, David Hinton, Rosemary Lloyd, Khaled Mattawa, and W. S. Merwin. Into English becomes a chorus in celebration of world poetry and translation—what George Kalogeris, quoting Virgil, describes as “song replying to song replying to song.”

Martha Collins is the author of eight books of poetry, including Admit One, and the co-translator of four collections of Vietnamese poetry.

Kevin Prufer is the author of six books of poetry, including Churches, and the coeditor of New European Poets.
So Much Blue
A Novel
PERCIVAL EVERETT
Fiction, 256 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-782-5), $16.00
Ebook Available

Broken River
A Novel
J. ROBERT LENNON
Fiction, 288 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-772-6), $16.00
Ebook Available

The Art of Death
Writing the Final Story
EDWIDGE DANTICAT
Nonfiction, 200 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-777-1), $14.00
Ebook Available

Lessons on Expulsion
Poems
ERIKA L. SÁNCHEZ
Poetry, 96 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-778-8), $16.00
Ebook Available

Fen
Stories
DAISY JOHNSON
Fiction, 208 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-774-0), $16.00
Ebook Available

Beast
A Novel
PAUL KINGSNORTH
Fiction, 176 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-779-5), $16.00
Ebook Available

Confessions of a
Recovering Environmentalist
and Other Essays
PAUL KINGSNORTH
Nonfiction, 304 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-780-1), $16.00
Ebook Available

A Doll for Throwing
Poems
MARY JO BANG
Poetry, 88 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-781-8), $16.00
Ebook Available

Said Not Said
Poems
FRED MARCHANT
Poetry, 96 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-773-3), $16.00
Ebook Available

The Half-Finished Heaven
Selected Poems
TOMAS TRANSTRÖMER
SELECTED AND TRANSLATED FROM THE SWEDISH BY ROBERT BLY
Poetry, 152 pages, Paperback
(978-1-55597-783-2), $16.00
Ebook Available
Individual and Corporate Support for Graywolf Press
Gifts listed below were made between January 1, 2016, and January 13, 2017. Every effort is made to recognize our donors appropriately. If the listing below is incorrect, please contact us so that we can correct our records. We truly appreciate the generosity of all our donors, but we don’t have space to list them all here. For the full list, please visit the acknowledgments page on our website: https://www.graywolfpress.org/give/annual-fund-donors

Annual Support

The Author Circle

Donations of $2,500 and above
Catherine Allan & Tim Grady
Susan & Richard Anderson
Family Fund
Trish & John Anderson
Carol & Judson Bemis
The Blessing Way
Foundation, Inc
Marion & Alan Brown
Mary Carswell
Julia W. Dayton
Mary Ebert & Paul Stembler
Kathleen Erickson
Ellen Flamm &
Richard Peterson
Vicki & Silas Ford
Lee Freeman
In memory of Glynna Freeman
Christine & Jon Galloway

Great River Energy
Paul & Pascha Griffiths
Betsy & Jule Hannaford
The Head Family Foundation
James & Becky Hoecker
Barbara Holmes &
Tony Freedley
Mary Ingebrand-Pohlad
Foundation
Mark Jensen
Georgia Murphy Johnson &
Bruce Johnson
Thomas Joyce &
Annette Atkins
John & Kathy Junek
Will & Claudia Kaul
Ann & Reid MacDonald
Chris LaVictoire Mahai &
Daniel Mahai
James McCarthy &
Gloria Peterson
Ed McConaghy &
Margaret Telfer
The Howard and Kennon
McKee Charitable Fund
Katherine Murphy
David & Mary Neal
Eloise and Carl Pohlad
Family Fund
Cathy Polasky & Averial Nelson
Mary Polta
Prospect Creek Foundation
Bruno & Mary Ann Quinson
Ritz Family Foundation
The Rodman Foundation
Paula and Roger Roe Family
Fund of The Minneapolis
Foundation

Gail See
Still Point Fund
Kate Tabner & Michael
Boardman
Nancy Temple
Diane & Gaylord
Thormodsgard
Emily Anne Staples Tuttle
Fund of the Minnesota
Community Foundation
Joanne Von Blon
The Wallin Foundation
Nicholas and Kristin Walrod
Fund of The Oregon
Community Foundation
Margaret & Angus Wurtele
Catherine Wyler &
Richard Rymeland
Michael Younger

The Editor Circle

Donations of $1,000 and above
Books For Africa
Ronnie & Roger Brooks
Camille Burke
Linda Campbell &
Fred Quirksfeld
Page & Jay Cowles
Milo & Tharangi
Cumaranatunge
David Dayton
Cy and Paula DeCosse Fund
of The Minneapolis
Foundation
Spencer Glendon & Lisa Tung
The Greystone Foundation
Harry Griswold

Jocelyn Hale and Glenn Miller
Charitable Fund at Schwab
Charitable
Barbara & Gary Haugen
Diane & John Herman
Hickrill Foundation
In honor of Bruno Quinson
Cecily Hines & Tom Pettus
Hognander Family Foundation
of The Minneapolis
Foundation
Perrin Ireland
Jane & James Kaufman
Fund of The Minneapolis
Foundation
Winthrop Knowlton &
Maxine Grofisky
Laura Kracum
Sheela Lampietti
Shawn Liu
Kevin Martin &
Hansa Jacob-Martin
Musa & Tom Mayer
Martha Mazzone Charitable
Gift Fund
Cynthia McCrac
Fiona McCrace & John Coy
Mary McVay
Jennifer Melin Miller &
David Miller
Matching Grant Program
Fund of The Minneapolis
Foundation
David and Leni Moore Family
Foundation
John Murphy

Anne & John Polta
E. Thomas Binger and
Rebecca Rand Fund of The
Minneapolis Foundation
Remele Family Fund of The
Minneapolis Foundation
Rebecca Roloff
Roderic Roloff &
Juan Jackson
Elizabeth & Jeffrey Spaulding
Kathryn Swintek
Melinda Ward
Western Bank
Mary & Ben Whitney
Tappan Wilder
Jamie Wilson & Dave Ericson
Graywolf Press books are printed on acid-free paper and are built to last.

Individuals. We encourage you to ask for Graywolf books at your local bookstore. If you are unable to obtain a Graywolf book from your retailer, please visit our web site: www.graywolfpress.org or call (651) 641-0077.

Graywolf books are distributed to the trade by:

FARRAR, STRAUS & GIROUX

Send trade orders to:
Sales Department
Farrar, Straus & Giroux
18 West 18th Street, New York, NY 10011
phone/rush orders c/o MPS: (888) 330-8477

New Customers
Include credit references and/or prepayment.
Contact FSG Sales Department for current discounts and terms.
Phone: (212) 206-5309
Fax: (212) 463-0641

Customer Service, Billing, and Accounts Receivable
Macmillan Publishing Services
16365 James Madison Highway
Gordonsville, VA 22942
Phone: (888) 330-8477
Fax: (540) 672-7703

Warehouse and Shipping
Farrar, Straus & Giroux
c/o MPS, 16365 James Madison Highway
Gordonsville, VA 22942

Returns
Farrar, Straus & Giroux
c/o MPS Returns Center, 14301 Litchfield Road
Orange, VA 22960

Farrar, Straus & Giroux will make every effort to follow shipping instructions but cannot accept responsibility or chargebacks for any deviation from those instructions.

Ordering in Canada
(For independent, library, trade wholesale, special markets, and warehouse club channels)
Raincoast Books
2440 Viking Way
Richmond, BC, Canada V6V 1N2
Phone: (604) 448-7100
Toll free phone: (800) 663-5714
Fax: (604) 270-7161
Toll free fax: (800) 565-3770
Email: customerservice@raincoast.com

Publication dates and prices are subject to change without notice.

Ordering in the United Kingdom/Ireland
Turnaround Distribution
Phone: 020-8829-3000
Fax: 020-8881-5088

Nonprofit Organizations and Special Sales
Please contact the Graywolf sales and marketing manager for terms: oneil@graywolfpress.org.

Examination and Desk Copies
Examination copies of Graywolf books are available for a flat fee of $5.00 for all titles. Requests must be made in writing on school letterhead stating the title and ISBN of the book and the name and anticipated enrollment of the course.
Please provide a campus mailing address. Make checks or money orders payable to Macmillan. Send requests to Macmillan Academic Marketing, 175 Fifth Avenue, 21st Floor, New York, NY 10010. Allow 3–4 weeks for delivery.
All requests are subject to availability and approval. Not valid for addresses outside the United States. One free desk copy is available for every twenty copies ordered. Contact byron.echeverria@macmillan.com with any questions.

Review Copies
Please contact the Graywolf publicist:
nitz@graywolfpress.org.

Subsidiary Rights
Please contact the Graywolf rights director:
dublinski@graywolfpress.org.

For more information about our books, please visit our web site: www.graywolfpress.org
Graywolf Press is a leading independent publisher committed to the discovery and energetic publication of twenty-first century American and international literature. We champion outstanding writers at all stages of their careers to ensure that adventurous readers can find underrepresented and diverse voices in a crowded marketplace.

We believe works of literature nourish the reader’s spirit and enrich the broader culture, and that they must be supported by attentive editing, compelling design, and creative promotion.

www.graywolfpress.org